Arizona's Election Officials ALL Agree

The legislature has an opportunity to secure our voter data and improve election integrity. This year.

Arizona’s statewide voter registration system is in desperate need of replacement. The system is antiquated and its outdated code presents continuing cyber-security challenges that could leave voter data vulnerable. The state and counties issued a request for proposal to obtain a new voter registration system. We are pleased to report that process is complete and a new contract was awarded. That new voter registration solution will be called AVID – the Access Voter Information Database. We are extremely grateful to Governor Ducey for including $2.1 million in his FY19 Executive Budget proposal to facilitate Arizona acquiring this new voter registration system and the legislature to include its funding in the final budget.

The entire activity of voter registration and voter record maintenance is a collaboration between the Secretary of State’s Office and the County Recorders. As with any major computer system acquiring and implementing are not the end of the financial investment, there are ongoing maintenance and operation costs.

Note: Residential addresses and names of minor children have been redacted for years 2016 and earlier. Effective January 1, 2017, public officers may provide either a home or work address. Additionally, if disclosure of the identity of the public officer's spouse or minor child would otherwise be required, a public officer may comply with the identification requirement by using the term "spouse" or "minor child," as applicable.

Over the year's we've developed a system that posts these documents online giving the public another tool to hold elected officials accountable. Combined with our new campaign finance website SeeTheMoney.com, people can now get a much better understanding of the financial interests of their representatives in state government.
